THE VISITING COAT

One of the very few subjects which will induce the American horseman to take pen in hand is the subject of riding clothes. Whereas our British cousins write letters to the press on every conceivable subject, equine and otherwise, on the smallest excuse and with amazing frequency, it takes a very hot subject indeed to overcome the natural lethargy of his American counterpart. Clothes on the other hand, particularly hunting clothes, will often tempt our horsemen to rise, when no other lure succeeds. It is with this thought in mind, therefore, that we set forth this week a few of the arguments, both pro and con, with which we have often had the pleasure of starting an argument, about the visiting coat.

Every organized hunt has its own rules and regulations as to dress. Although most of these rules conform to the Hunting Appointments section of the Rule Book of the American Horse Shows Association, many individual hunts have their own variation based on local conditions. Now this variation presents no great problem for the regular followers of any given hunt; all they have to do is to consult the Master or the Secretary. But in recent years, particularly since public horse vans and private trailers have become so easily available and widespread, more and more people are visiting hunts other than their own. Naturally when they appear at covertside they want to be correctly turned out, not only for the benefit of the strangers around them, but also to do credit to the home organization.

There are, of course, two types of visitors, those who come just for the odd day and those who move into the country from another hunt. As regards the latter it seems to be pretty well established that, if they intend to settle down, they should not continue to wear the buttons and colors of their old hunt, no matter how gloriously they may have won these marks of distinction. Since they have identified themselves with a new hunt, it would hardly be proper for them to continue to wear the insignia of the old.

There are those who say, in addition, that no one should wear their own hunt colors and buttons when visiting, nor should they wear scarlet. Whereas in England scarlet is generally considered the color of the chase which every gentleman is entitled to wear, in many hunts in this country it is given the same significance as the hunt button and is considered appropriate only for members. For this group the logical conclusion is a special coat, accepted as correct attire for visitors to any hunt no matter what its individual regulations. In general their ideas are conservative, black, dark grey or dark blue (for ladies) with a collar of the same material and black bone buttons.

Opposed to the conservatives is another group which champions the pageantry of the chase and feels that visitors should turn out in the full regalia of their own hunt. They argue that this adds to the color of the scene and readily identifies the wearers as guests to whom local residents can offer a warm welcome and special assistance if needed. Furthermore they point out that hunting is expensive enough as it is and that to require the purchase of a special coat in which to visit would be unduly burdensome.

We would welcome additional words of wisdom about this sartorial problem.

How It Happened

Dear Sir:

The Chronicle has always been my idea of what a sports journal should be, but I feel I have to make one correction connected with a short story which appeared in the September 7, 1956, issue. You told how a police horse in New York City bolted one day when he heard a siren. Since the horse was a former steeplechaser, you said humorously that the siren must have reminded the horse of the starting bell from his racing days.

BREEDING AND Racing

REVIEW OF THE WEEK

Calumet Farm's Barbizon Wins 4th Running Of The Garden State In Photo Finish Raleigh Burroughs

Garden State

There is a gent at Caliente who makes it possible for bettors to indulge in the most difficult and, at the same time, the most intriguing of all gambling games - the future book.

Whenever a big race comes up, this public-spirited guy makes up a line that looks simply delicious and even if you have barred wagering from your diet, you are likely to break the rules in the hopes of picking up a fast farthing or two.

In the case of The Garden State, to which supplementary entries were allowed, special considerations were given players. What horses would be supplementaries was not known, of course, when the original line was issued, and they were not added at the time of their nomination. But that made the lot of the future book bettors better than that of the original nominators.

The ladies and gentlemen who put up $35 to get into the race last December had to beat the supplementaries to get top money; the future book bettors collected first money if they had the perspicuity to bet on the horse that ran third. That was Amarullah. Those who bet in the futures on Ambehaving to place, were paid off, even though the colt finished fourth. Tranquil, which ended up in sixth place, and Nashville, eighth under the wire, brought rewards to their backers, if the backers bet they would be third and fourth respectively.

If you had the conviction last July 31, that Amarullah was the one that would win The Garden State and had the nerve to risk $50 on your opinion, you would be watching for the mailman with your five grand right now because he was 100 to 1 on the opening line.

However, Mr. George D. Widener, the owner of Amarullah, who put up his 35 bucks last December got only third money, because two supplementary entries beat his colt to the wire. (The term "only" is used here in a relative sense.) "Only" third money in this race amounted to $42,881.50.

Gives you a mighty warm feeling toward the party that makes the winter book when he pays off all the way down to eighth.

The Garden State, October 27, was a remarkable pageant. It was staged in classic manner and developed into as exciting a horserace as anyone could ask for.

The spectacle of 19 two-year-olds coming away from the gate in a wave was breath-taking. More, of course, have been spread across Belmont's Widener Course, but there they are a half a mile or more away. Here they were under your nose; the shouts of the jockeys and the thwacking of the whips beat against your eardrums. The action was right in your lap.

Before you had sucked in a gasp of oxygen, your respiration was gone again, shocked from you by the zooming sprint of an animal named Jaunty John. To the first turn he raced, beating Bold Ruler to the bend and ripping off yardage as though the distance were but half a mile.

As a matter of fact, for Jaunty John, it was. First, at the end of four furlongs, he was last at the completion of six.

Atkinson had Bold Ruler tracking along behind the front runner, while Carstens guided Federal Hill to the outside.

Then Jaunty John decided he'd had enough. It was the fastest stop since the invention of power brakes. Bold Ruler, perhaps, had read chart callers' references to fast horses that "ran over" the opposition. He tried it and found it doesn't work. The expression is figurative.

He took one step up the backside of Jaunty John and knew he had made a mistake. Maybe he wouldn't have won anyway, but he lost interest at that point, and was either hurt or badly scared.

Ted Atkinson pulled him hard to save a spill and Bold Ruler was done and the maker of the future book was saved from a fate worse than death - that of suffering a loss.

While Bold Ruler was trying to trample Jaunty John to death, and Federal Hill was hanging around to watch the fun, Melson, Amarullah and Barbizon were beginning to move.

But when the two involved in the mix-up retired, Federal Hill was all alone on the front end. By the time he had completed the curve and had only an eighth of a mile to go, he looked to be a certain winner.

He was three lengths ahead of Amarullah, and Barbizon was two more lengths back.

Amarullah charged ahead and was quickly cutting down Federal Hill's margin; and then it could be seen that Barbizon was coming faster.

Carstens did a masterful job to hold together his mount, but Hartack was riding Barbizon, and Hartack hates to lose. In the final strides he zipped past Amarullah and swept under the line in what appeared to be a tie with Federal Hill.

The photo gave him the win by a nose. Amarullah failed by a short neck to hold second place. Ambehaving, Melson, Tranquil and Take Note followed in that order. The mile and a sixteenth was covered in 1:44 4/5, good time for the "good" track.

Barbizon, Federal Hill, Melson and Take Note were the four supplementaries.

Barbizon (Polynesian - Good Blood, by Bull Lea) was making his first start in a stakes race, and Calumet Farm was being represented in The Garden State for the first time. The mutual payoff was $15.20.

His record shows 5 wins and 1 second in 6 tries. The $168,430.50 from The Garden State put his earnings at $182,985 and 50 cents.

Mrs. Gene Markey's Calumet Farm bred the colt and Jimmy Jones trains him.

In keeping with its custom of having a good one ready for the big one, Calumet Farm sent out Bardstown for a go at the mile-and-a-quarter Trenton Handicap on October 24.

In keeping with its custom of winning 'em, Calumet did.

It was a tough fight though, with the new handicap star of the outfit, Bardstown, scoring by a neck over Mrs. J. W. Galbreath's Summer Tan. Alfred Vanderbilt's Fine was third and Cockfield Stable's Le Beau Prince was fourth. Seven horses went in the event.

Find, under 118 pounds which included Bennie Green, led the way with Bardstown, Le Beau Prince and Summer Tan never far back. As Find and Le Beau Prince tired in the muddy going, Bardstown and Summer Tan raced up and the stretch battle was between the two.

Bardstown, carrying 126 pounds, was giving four to the second horse. He paid $6.40 for $2.

Others in the race received from 7 to 17 pounds from the winner.

Bardstown is a four-year-old son of *Alibhai, from Bull Lea's great daughter, Twilight Tear. He did not run at two or three and was gelded.

With the $54,550 Trenton prize he has earnings of $173,050.

He has started 13 times, won 9 races, been second in 1 and third in 1.

Other stakes wins, besides the Trenton, were in the Longport, Buckeye and Quaker City Handicaps.

H. A. Jones trains Bardstown, Hartack has ridden him in nearly all of his races.

Jamaica

Third Brother, the public choice at 3 to 2, won the mile-and-five-eighths Long Island Handicap on October 24. Following C. T. Chenery's three-year-old colt home were Beau Diable, Thinking Cap and Little Dell.

Over a muddy strip the *Princequillo (from Hildene, by Bubbling Over) colt won convincingly by five lengths.

The race was worth $19,300 to the winner.

L. Valenzuela was aboard for the victory.

Third Brother had shown an excellent effort behind Nashua in the Jockey Club Gold Cup eleven days earlier and came up for this one in great shape.

He was making his 23rd start of 1956. He has registered 4 wins, 2 seconds and 5 thirds, and has earnings of $46,400.

As a two-year-old last season, Third Brother won one race in 7 starts.

J. H. "Casey" Hayes trains him. Mr. Chenery bred him.

Made second choice for the mile-and-an-eighth Firenze (October 27) Rokeby Stables' Blue Banner got up to best Happy Princess for first money after a bitter stretch duel.

Manotick was third and Rare Treat fourth.

Bill Boland was aboard the winner.

THE CHRONICLE

Earning $19,400, Blue Banner put her season's total at $64,775.

She shows 7 wins and 3 thirds in 16 tries.

The four-year-old filly is by War Admiral, out of Risque Blue, by Blue Larkspur.

She was bred by Mrs. John D. Hertz. Jack Skinner trains for the Rokeby Stables (Paul Mellon).

Short Takes of Late Stakes

The Maryland Futurity at Laurel (October 24) was won by Pajama Tops. Traffic Judge registered in the Turf Cup Handicap at the Maryland track on October 27.

Sportsman's Snarol Handicap, run in two divisions on October 20, was won by Warbler and Roman Spy. Stud Poker Handicap, October 24, went to In Clover. The Littletown Handicap was taken by Ja Ja (October 27).

At Suffolk Downs, Reneged won the Yankee Handicap on October 24. Deep Thought connected in the New England Handicap, October 27.

The Ohio Championship (Beulah Park, October 20) went to Chief Fanelli.

Eugenia II scored an upset in the Canadian Championship at New Woodbine, on October 27.

Churchill Downs' Autumn Purse (October 27) was taken by Hasseyampa.

At Golden Gate, the Futurity Stakes went to Swirling Abbey.

1956 Keeneland Fall Yearlings Bring Best Average in 10 Years

The Breeders' Sales Company sent a total of 579 colts and fillies through the sales ring at Keeneland (Oct. 23, 24, 25, 26) for $1,451,500, an average of $2,507. This was the highest average obtained in 10 years at the fall sale of yearlings. The advance was slightly more than 10 percent over last year's average, when 512 head brought $1,162,800 to average $2,271.

The record high was set in 1945 when the average was $3,622. In 1946 it was $3,397. However, in the above two years, the number of yearlings sold was considerably less than this year's figure of $79.

The top price this year was the $21,000 received by James S. Jones for his gray colt by Oil Capitol-Hover by Messenger, which was his sole consignment to the sale and was purchased by James V. Tigani. Thomas D. Nolan, of Louisville, Ky. paid $20,000 for a chestnut daughter of Citation-Cherrydale, by Whiskaway, consigned by Mr. and Mrs. Daniel F. Rice's Danada Farm. Agent W. T. Radford purchased Crown Crest Farm's (Mr. and Mrs. Howard Reineman) imported bay colt by Nearco-Linaria, by Turkhan, for Fred Turner, Jr. of Midland, Texas for $20,000.

Followers of the Thoroughbred sport will no doubt be reading many a line about "bargain yearlings" during the 1957 racing season, as many youngsters went under the $1,000 mark and the sheer force of the large number in this category should raise the odds on the "bargain basement" stories in store for the future.

Brun de Gris Wins Genesee Hunt Cup

Michael Kelley

The annual Genesee Valley Hunt Race Meet held in Genesee on October 20th was a second-rate cousin to what this event has been in the past. Most of the races were run by a handful of local people which is somewhat of a surprise since the riding population of the Valley is on the increase and the Valley horses are well known throughout the country. Franz Stone riding Brun de Gris again won the Genesee Valley Hunt Cup, the fifth time that Mr. Stone has accomplished this. Only three horses went to the post for this three and one-half race over timber. Mr. Stone set a fast pace, opened up a big gap right in the beginning, and maintained this lead for the entire race. Second was Oak's Acorn owned and ridden by Jack Frohm. In third place was Mark Welch's Sidney Bee ridden by Frank Laimbeer.

The best filled race of the day was the Pony Flat Race; seven went to the post, well turned out with racing colors. Little Red, a Western pony, owned and ridden by Mike DiFranco, came out in front and led the field to the finish line. The parade of the Genesee Valley Hunt hounds by Wm. P. Wadsworth, M. F. H., and staff was a grand sight. The Polo Pony Race had just two entries as did the Heavyweight Race. This race (named the John Jorlocks) caused a little thumbing through the rule book as the actual winner of the race was Hoodwink, owned by Franz Stone and ridden by Don Yull who lost his weights just after the first jump. Since he didn't meet the weight requirements after the race, he had to be disqualified. William Welch riding his own Late Date, came in a very close second giving Hoodwink a good run for his money and was declared the winner. The two Stakes races, combined into one because of too few entries, was won by Grey Puss, owned and ridden by Joseph Chandler. The Ladies Race was won by Bright Mate, owned by Mrs. R. B. Taylor and ridden by Mrs. P. Lowther. This horse set a very strong pace and increased his lead throughout the race. Even the Farmer's Flat Race, usually a well filled hodge-podge of Western and English horses, had just four entries. Anthony Brown on his Narowan came home the winner.

Lake of Two Mountains Hunt Point-to-Point Steeplechases

On the 14th of October some two thousand and people turned out at Hudson, Quebec, Canada for the Lake of Two Mountains Hunt Annual Point-to-Point Steeplechases.

Clerk of the course Robin Walker and his assistants set up a spectacular course of about two miles with fifteen obstacles including post and rails, brush and ditch, open water jump and water splash.

First event was the Heavy Weight and Military race with riders to weigh in at over 200 lbs., open to all members, subscribers and supporters of recognized Hunts, for the Military Cup and purse prizes and also for the 17th Hussars Steeplechase Trophy presented by the 17th Duke of York's Royal Canadian Hussars. The latter trophy is presented to the first serving or ex-serving Member of Her Majesty's Forces to finish, the Trophy going to the jockey.

Robin Walker and his horse Snuggle Bunny led most of the way, until H. J. O'Connel's Tidal Wave, Desmond Stoker up, came on to look like a sure winner, only to have the horse shy and the saddle slip at the gully on the way home. Tom Moore and Clon Lara, winner of last year's event, finally came on from away back to win, followed by Snuggle Bunny and D. W. Stewart's Flight with G. Archer up.

The Lightweight and Farmers race followed with the same conditions regarding hunt members and including any Farmers who farm within the boundaries of the Lake of Two Mountains and the Montreal Hunt. This event is contested for the Deidre Cup presented by Mr. and Mrs. Desmond Stoker, with an additional trophy for farmers.

Air Vice Marshall A. Raymond, MFH, won all the way with Canus ridden by Pierre Raymond, Buckmaster, the O'Connel entry ridden by H. R. Smith, and Frankham Farm's Pin Money with Bridget Pyke up, fought it out for second place with the horses finishing in that order.

The Dow Brewery Trophy was won by Bedard on Guidon. This is the draught horse race, open to horses on regular work and ridden bare back.

The open race, a stake event and the largest of the day, was open to all at catchweights for the Walsh Perpetual Challenge Cup. Joe McCarthy, riding Mrs. I. T. Porter's Diana Khan, led all the way though several times challenged. Blue Lightning owned by the Stettler Riding School and ridden by Emile Allain was second. Linda was third for D. W. Stewart and rider P. Van der Baal while fourth went to Take One, Air Vice Marshall Raymond's entry with Pierre Raymond in the saddle.

The Oriel Cup, presented by Mr. Winnet Boyd for Annual Competition and open to ladies of any recognized hunt, was a most exciting race between two contestants - Lois McCann on O'Connel's Tidal Wave and Dionne Appleton on her Balmagee.

Neck and neck over the last jump, Tidal Wave shied at the gully. Balmagee looked to be the winner, but Lois straightened out her horse and flew down the home stretch to pass the tiring Balmagee - a really thrilling race between two fine horses and their young riders. Jennifer Biggs and Celeste gave a fine performance to clear all jumps and finish third. What looked to be a nasty spill occurred at the fourth obstacle when C. Cahoon and Tito parted company, though the young lady wasn't too long in getting to her feet.

GRASS VS. DIRT

The answer is in the natural physical racing action of the horse.

"They are born that way", explains Godfrey Preece, veteran horseman, racing student and Hialeah official. "It's all in their knees. Horses that bend their knees in a round, chopping motion run better on the soft surface of the grass. It's called round-house action in the trade. This type of horse is in contrast to the type like Swaps and Needles, who seem to sweep or bounce over harder ground, and are known as daisy-cutters."

"It should be emphasized, however, that Swaps and Needles will do all right over a hard grass track, and there are many grass tracks that are harder than dirt courses," says Preece.

As for shoes, he points out that "stickers" on the running plates give horses confidence on the softer grass surfaces because they prevent sliding and skidding. A good grass horse, however, can run equally well with regular shoes - or barefooted.

The late Joseph E. Widener opened the turf course around the Hialeah infield lake in 1932 to bring the sport back to this land. Although most racing abroad is on grass, there hadn't been any competition of this type for horses on this continent since the close of the old Sheep-head Bay course on Long Island, soon after the turn of the century. There have been daily races on grass at Hialeah since 1932 and, strangely, the pari-mutuel play is larger than on races on the dirt track.

John's Joy

Two 2-year-old stakes winners on the same afternoon was the accomplishment of the young stallion John's Joy on September 22 when his Our Joy won the World's Playground Stakes at Atlantic City and Jaunty John captured the Livonia Stakes at Detroit. John's Joy stands at Stoner Creed Stud, Paris, Kentucky.

Better Self Scores

In his first two crops of offspring to race, the stallion Better Self has had three-fourths of his foals to win races, one-fourth winning stakes. Better Self stands at King Ranch near Lexington, Ky., and is himself a son of Bimelech - Bee Mac, by War Admiral.

Antibiotic For Worms

At the recent Fourth Annual Antibiotics Symposium in Washington, D. C., Eli Lilly Company announced the development of hygromycin, the first antibiotic known to have a broad spectrum effect against internal parasites of animals. Dr. A. C. Todd, professor of veterinary science of the University of Wisconsin, has been conducting experiments with hygromycin on hogs and has established its effectiveness against ascarids, strongyles and whip worms. It also seems to be effective against the organisms causing amoebic dysentery and leptospirosis in over a field of good fillies and mares in the good time of 10 2/5ths. That isn't all - it was an "All Virginia" combination. The mare's sire, Air Hero, is owned by a Virginian, Dr. J. P. Jones, and stands in Charlottesville. Her dam, Scottwoods, was bred by a Virginian, Mr. W. H. Lipscomb. The sire of Scottwoods was *Ksar, who was owned by the late Kenneth Gilpin, and stood at Kentmere Farm in Boyce, Va. Solar System was bred and is owned by Mrs. Voigt. Her trainer, Woods Garth, is also a Virginian, and the jockey, Willie Hartack (we're going to stre-e-e-etch a point!) is from just over the border in West Virginia.

PENNSYLVANIA

Wetherill Purchases French Mare

Among the spectators at the Garden State Sales was Cortright Wetherill of the Happy Hill Farm, Newtown Square, Pennsylvania, who recently returned from racing at Deauville. He also purchased in France the 6-year-old mare Wild Princess, by Wild Risk, in foal to Prince Bio and booked next season to Tornado.

MASSACHUSETTS

Count Nimble

Count Nimble, 6-year-old son of Count Fleet-Nimble by Flying Heels, who entered the stud in 1956, has had a successful first season. Among the winning mares in foal to him is the stakes-placed Helentar, by Spy Song-Bright Climax by Flares. This mare place in 17 consecutive starts in 1954. Also in foal to Count Nimble is the good winner Siren's Ring, by Sky Raider-Geraldine by Stimulus. This mare is a full-sister to Brazen Brat, stakes winner of $169,300. Other winners in foal to Count Nimble include Quest Again, by Alquest, winner at 2, 3 and 4; Willow Ware, by Platter, winner at 3, 4, 5 and 6; Capital V by *Vezzano-Fresh Money; Gloryo, by Heather Broom-Countess Gal; also mares by Four Freedoms, Rhodes Scholar, Boat-swain, etc. Count Nimble, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Talbot Dewey, stands at the Ridley Stables in Medfield, Mass.

Hanes Buys Top Yearling At Dublin Sales

John W. Hanes, president of the Greater New York Association, acting through Messrs. Kerr and Company, paid $38,220 for a yearling filly by Hyperion-Ace of Spades by Atout Maitre, a three-parts sister to Eastern Emperor, winner of the Jockey Club Cup and Chester Cup. Andy Crevolin of California was the underbidder on the only Tulyar yearling consigned, a filly out of Lady Confeys purchased by Sir Victor Sassoon.

Top Priced Yearling

Two years ago at the Dewar Dispersal Sale the young Hyperion mare Refreshed was bought by Gerald Askew for $30,000 when carrying a foal to Court Martial.

At the time it was thought that there was unlikely to be much profit on so expensive a purchase. This year, however, the Court Martial yearling came into the ring at the Newmarket October Sales and recovered half of his dam's purchase price.

A strongly made chestnut colt with a flaxen mane, he excited a keen struggle between the Aly Khan, Sir Gordon Richards and the Anglo-Irish Agency, before falling to the bid of the last-named at $48,500. Though the Agency were unable to reveal for whom they made their purchase, it was stated that the colt was bought by an American owner whom some believed to be George D. Widener, Chairman of the American Jockey Club. P. T-C.

Black Tarquin's Produce Sell Well

One of the features of the Doncaster Sales was the good prices given for the yearlings from the first Irish crop of Black Tarquin, who stood his initial season in 1954 at the Burgage Stud after crossing the Atlantic.

Four of his produce changed hands for an aggregate of 29,200 guineas, giving him the seventh highest average of any stallion at the sales. Top price was the $11,700 which veteran trainer Atty Persse paid for the brown colt out of Ready.

Ray Bell Buys

It was not until the final session at Newmarket that Ray Bell laid out $15,000 for an all-quality bay colt by Nearco. He is out of Admiral Drake's daughter Kashmir Sapphire, who has already bred two juvenile winners.

The Canadian stated that he had not at that time decided whether to race the horse in Britain or to ship him straight across the Atlantic.

IMPORTED FRENCH HORSES RUN ONE, TWO IN TURF WRITERS

Horses recently imported from France took first and second places in the running of the two mile New York Turf Writer's Handicap over hurdles on the first day of the United Hunts meeting at Belmont Park on October 17th. John M. Schiff's *Muguet II was first under the wire, two lengths ahead of Mrs. G. L. Ohrstrom's Arywa which came over in the same plane that returned C. V. Whitney's Career Boy and Fisherman after running in the Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe.

CAREER BOY'S ARC DE TRIOMPHE

The excellence of Career Boy's effort in the recent Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe at Longchamp can perhaps be measured by the fact that he failed, only by a head, to beat Tanerko, France's best representative in a year in which French horses ran first and second in the Derby; first, second and third in the Oaks, Ascot, Gold Cup and Queen Elizabeth II Stakes; and also won the St. Leger, Coronation Cup and Eclipse Stakes.

WINS CAULFIELD CUP WITH 139 LBS.

American owners who think that 130 lbs. is enough weight for any horse to carry might be interested in the fact that Red Craze, recent winner of the Caulfield Cup, one of Australia's principal races, carried 139 lbs., beating by four lengths Evening Peal carrying 114 lbs.

BELMONT ELIGIBILITY

Columnist Chuck Connors suggests that the winners of Belmont Park's 2-year-old classics the Futurity, Cowdin, Hopeful and Great American should automatically be made eligible for the Belmont stakes for 3-year-olds at one mile and a half.

MIDDLEBURG TRAINING TRACK, INC.

Middleburg Training Track, Inc., the corporation which operates the track recently constructed near Middleburg, Virginia by the Paul Mellon interests, has completed five 20-stall barns which are leased to Mrs. Theodora A. Randolph, Mrs. M. E. Lunn, Arthur White and Mrs. D. N. Lee, the latter occupying two barns. Each is enclosed with a glassed-in jogging shed suitable for working horses in winter and has two adjoining paddocks. Now under construction are a race track kitchen and a trainers' stand. Additional barns will probably be built next spring. Horses stabled in the neighborhood may also train on the track for a stipulated fee. It is expected that during the spring an assistant starter from one of the major race tracks will be in attendance for about a month to qualify horses out of the starting gate. The track is seven furlongs in circumference with a chute bringing it up to a mile. Howard Kaye is general superintendent and manager.

CALIFORNIA BREEDERS OFFICE AND LIBRARY

The California Thoroughbred Breeders' Association announced that it expects to move into its new office and library building, now being erected in Arcadia, not later than Feb. 1.

The new headquarters will be on an entire block of land on Colorado Place, near the junction of Huntington Drive, opposite the 7-furlong chute on Santa Anita's backstretch. It provides a location near the heart of Southern California's horse country, close to the San Gabriel and Chino Valleys, presently the most concentrated centers of quality Thoroughbred breeding in California, second most important area in the United States.

The building, of imposing Early California architecture, will measure about 145 feet wide. The library 47 x 20 feet, will be the centerpiece and focal point. It will house the most complete and valuable collection of turfiana in the west and eventually, its sponsors hope, in the nation. In addition, there will be large general and private offices; a board room, 20 x 30; and editorial rooms and facilities for the publication of the association's monthly magazine, "The Thoroughbred of California", edited by Jack Shuttlesworth.

IRISH WINNER FOR MISS SEARS

On the strength of a good second in his previous race to Isle of Shine (since purchased for America), Miss E. R. Sears' Downside was made a 7-4 favorite for the Yeomanstown Plate at Phoenix Park, Dublin and justified the support by scoring by a length.

Downside was a $17,600 purchase as a yearling at Doncaster by the wealthy industrialist John Dunlop, and was bought by Miss Sears when the Englishman decided to sell out this summer.

By Sicambre, he is out of the American-foaled Viola II, a daughter of *Sir Galahad III and *Vibration II. P. T.-C.

BOUSSAC HORSE TO RUN

IN INTERNATIONAL

The great French horse owner Marcel Boussac has cabled the officials of Laurel Race Course that his horse Macip, winner of this year's Ascot Gold Cup, will start in the fifth running of the $100,000 Washington, D. C. International on November 12th. Boussac has led the money-winning owners' list in France for eighteen out of twenty years and is ahead this season. He keeps 120 mares on his two stud farms in Normandy and at Chantilly near Paris where also stand his stallions Pharis, Djebel and the American-bred Coaltown. This is the first time that a Boussac horse has ever started in this country.

SON OF *BERNBOROUGH TO STUD

IN ENGLAND

The first stallion by *Bernborough in Britain will be the chestnut five-year-old Hook Money, who will stand in 1957 at the renowned Cheveley Park Stud.

The winner of nine races in four seasons in the colors of Robert S. Clark, the horse was sold at the end of his racing career to his trainer, Arthur Budgett, who is expecting to syndicate him. Out of Bimblech's three-parts sister Besieged, he seems to offer breeders a unique opportunity in the British Isles to introduce the best American and Australian blood into their studs.

BOWLER HAT WON'T DO

Columnist Michael O'Hehir reporting on racing in Ireland writes: "A jockey was on the carpet here recently for a very good reason. He tried to weigh out with the crown of a bowler hat instead of a skull cap. Caught in the act, he was heavily fined and cautioned."

BOUSSAC STUD TRACES TO

AMERICAN STOCK

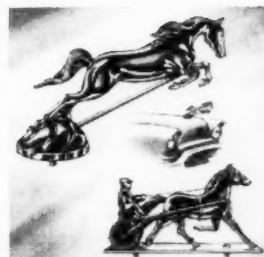

The International Foundation for Thoroughbred Breeding is impressed by the fact that Marcel Boussac, leading owner in France for the past 18 out of 20 years, got his start by buying the breeding stock of the American owner Herman B. Duryea.

LEADING 2-YR.-OLD

Tuesday September 11 may well have been the day that decided England's leading two-year-old of 1956. Three front ranking candidates Eudaemon, Red God and Military Law, crossed the wire within inches of each other in the valuable six furlongs Champagne Stakes at Doncaster.

Red God (by *Nasrullah), who carried the colours of the American owner Mr. Harry Guggenheim, appeared to have the race won a furlong out, but failed to hold off Eudaemon who beat him for first prize of $11,000 by a head. Eudaemon is by the former Boussac sire Pardal, who is making a very successful start to his stud career.

Ribot Winner Of Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe

Peter Scott

"De l'Audace, encore de l'Audace et toujours de l'Audace." That rallying cry, made by Danton during the French revolution, has passed into his country's language. The good advice it contains was never more strongly emphasized in the field of sport than it was on a grey Sunday afternoon at Longchamp racecourse, Paris, early in October.

Brought back for one more "farewell" performance, the amazing Italian four-year-old Ribot won the $100,000 Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe by six lengths from the greatest international field any race has ever brought together and increased his reputation from "a very good horse" to one of the immortals.

As most of you know, Ribot had piled up an unbroken sequence of 15 victories before he came to Longchamp for the last time, those wins including two other internationals, the King George VI and Queen Elizabeth Stakes at Ascot three months earlier and this same Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe in 1955. He had won every race since his early three-year-old days by wide margins and most owners would have rushed him off to the stud in a halo of unbeaten glory.

Ribot's Reputation

But 79-year-old Donna Lydia Tesio is not just another owner. She is a remarkable old lady who had supreme faith in a wonderful horse. She foresaw what people might be saying about Ribot in ten years when other champions had come and gone - in fact what some were saying already. That Ribot, despite all those wins, had never met another horse of true classic calibre. Those easy successes in Italy might not have meant much. The Ascot win was at the expense of opposition deplorably weak considering that it was England's richest race. By the time the 1955 Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe came along, all Ribot's European contemporaries of top standard, Meld, Phil Drake, Vimy and Chingacgook had either retired or broken down.

So she brought Ribot out of the retirement planned for him after Ascot, gave him a "tightener" in a small nine furlongs event in Milan, and sent him to Longchamp once again to meet top quality opposition representing not only France but America, England and Ireland as well in this mile and a half classic.

The Field

It was indeed a splendid field of 20 that paraded on the great afternoon. Fisherman and Career Boy had travelled calmly and their appearance did enormous credit to Syl Veitch. Tanerko and Appollonia, considered by most French horsemen to be their best three-year-old colt and filly respectively, headed the home team, Ireland, where they were bred, and England which was responsible for their training and riding, had their hopes centred on runaway Irish Derby winner Talgo and Europe's champion stayer Zarathustra. Madame Volterra fielded two classic winners in Grand Prix de Paris victor Vattel and Epsom Oaks heroine Sicarelle. The others,

RIBOT comes off the track after a victory which left the big international crowd breathless with excitement and glowing with admiration. The news that it was his last race heartened the owners of his rivals but his absence will be regretted by turf followers all over Europe. (P. Bertrand) though outsiders, all had excellent performances in stakes' company to their credit.

Fisherman's Great Effort

Fisherman went to the front from the break and set an amazing gallop considering the very heavy going. The three separate quarters that took them to the top of the hill and to halfway were caught in 25.44 secs., 25.84 secs., and 25.08 secs. The first five furlongs had been run in the same time as a brilliant Irish two-year-old named Skindles Hotel had taken to win the valuable Prix d'Arenberg on less severe going the previous afternoon. Most Europeans in the stand thought that Fisherman would soon drop back exhausted from this tremendous gallop, but our hearts went out to the gallant little Whitney five-year-old as he stuck it out, furlong after furlong, down the hill and approaching the stretch.

Ribot Moves

But Ribot, who had been in the first three throughout, was moving steadily forward now and it could be seen that he was going very easily while Boulmetis was hard at work. The Italian moved smoothly into the lead while Tanerko who had tracked him, going as comfortably, went up second.

Doyasbere then started to push Tanerko but try as he would this handsome colt could not get in a challenge. Ribot, now really in top gear, drew steadily away all down the stretch. The little English-trained Talgo threaded his way through to challenge on the rails. He was slightly baulked three-sixteenths out, but it made no difference. By this time it was a one horse race. Talgo stayed on strongly for second money and Arcaro brought Career Boy with a tremendous run on the outside to miss third place by only a nose. Had the Whitney colt acted better on the downhill run there is little doubt he would have been third and possibly second.

His Reception

Ribot came off the track to a hero's reception. By now the crowd had recovered its breath and they yelled and handclapped their approval at the little bay colt and his sunburnt jockey in the red and white jacket.

The formalities over, the photographs taken and the last pat given, Ribot walked quietly away, back through the crowds and on to the sanctuary of the racecourse stables. He was cool and unconcerned. The job was done and he, alone, seemed modest about the way it had been accomplished.

Back in a little room off the stewards enclosure, Donna Lydia and her partner the Marchese Incisa della Rochetta held their own court. The old lady was quiet and dignified, but obviously immensely happy. The Marchese, a champagne glass in his hand and the sweat still on his brow, looked enormously relieved.

"No, Ribot does not run again," he told inquirers. "No Laurel Park or Premio del Jockey Club. He's finished. He's done enough."

So closed the last chapter in the racecourse history of a remarkable horse. For toughness, consistency, overwhelming superiority at all distances and sheer greatness Ribot and Citation must rank as the two supreme champions of the Post-War era.

Mr. Whitney's Sportsmanship

No story of this memorable race would be complete without a tribute to Mr. Whitney and his wonderful sportsmanship in sending two splendid horses across the Atlantic for a prize no more valuable than they could race for nearly every fortnight at home. The remarkable races that both in their way turned in gave a tremendous boost to international competition and I am sure that almost every horseman in Europe will be secretly rooting for Career Boy at Laurel Park. Such a reward would be only Mr. Whitney's due.

Of Talgo it can be said that this race proved him the best middle distance three-year-old in Europe. Of Tanerko it can be remarked what a good horse he is at Longchamp and what a pity it is that his nervousness and aversion to travelling is likely to prevent his ever being campaigned outside France. Apollonia quite failed to last out the trip at that tremendous gallop and was mercifully eased by Boulenger to finish well back. She now goes to stud as does Sicarelle who showed no trace of her fine midsummer form. Europe's top stayer, Zarathustra, Grand Prix de Paris winner Vattel and surprise French St. Leger victor Arabian simply could never go the pace. Master Boing, a possible for Laurel Park, had every chance and, in finishing fifth, ran the race of his life.

Ambassadors Of Good Will

Eddie Arcaro and Sam Boulmetis were fine ambassadors. Arcaro paid his own glowing tribute to Ribot. He would be a "great" in any country he chose to ride and that goes for any racetracks they may have on Mars as well!

Evan Shipman headed the team of American pressmen over for the race and it was a big personal thrill to your correspondent to meet and talk with this great and gifted writer.

It seemed that every racing nation in the World was represented for Longchamp's fiesta. They mixed freely together paid homage to a supreme Thoroughbred, tribute to some gallant losers, and parted firmer friends.

Top Sales Year

Fasig-Tipton Co., 58-year-old thoroughbred auction sales company, has been having one of its top sales years in history during 1956. New high averages for yearlings auctioned were established in August and September at its Saratoga,

Hunting In India

Ambassador To Ceylon Has Good Day With Ooty Hounds

Philip K. Crowe

Hunting and pig-sticking, the two sports that used to gladden the heart of British officers stationed in India, have almost vanished from the subcontinent, but both sports still survive in a few localities and I was fortunate in having a fine day's hunting recently with the Ootacamund, the pack which hunts the wild downs and cholas of the Nilgiri Hills, a range of the Western Ghats in the state of Madras, South India.

Hounds met at seven-thirty at West a nice little lemon and white bitch. Then came Rasundrum, the terrier man, armed with a spade and clad appropriately in a faded pink coat. At his heels trotted the hunt terriers, Whiskey and Brindle. The horses, all except a few of which were from the Staff college, were ridden by red-turbaned syces, or grooms. Australian walers and country-breds predominated but Miss Scott, the lone lady member out, had a nice Thoroughbred mare. I was pleased when I

The author with Gerald Simpson, Master of the Ooty, and Bahu Lal, the huntsman.

Briar, seven miles out on the Mysore Road from Ooty. A grey mist swirled over the downs and I was strongly reminded of other misty hunting mornings; of meets on the moors of Nantucket Island off Massachusetts, when Becky Trimpi, the master cast hounds into the bracken and they went away like smoke across the moors; of meets on the downs in Devon when the stag hounds ran like ghosts through the fog and it needed the best hunter in England to stay with them.

We were the first to arrive at the meet and greeted Bahu Lal, the huntsman, when he arrived with nine couple and a very level workmanlike pack they were. I was particularly struck with Drummer, a big powerful dog hound, imported from the Hampshire in England, and also liked Countess, saw my horse, a big weight-carrying grey named Jutland, who later justified his name. Then came the master in pink and General Gyani, Commandant of the Staff College, who kindly lent me Jutland. The field included a dozen officers from the college and the syces with second horses.

We left the road and jogged over the springy turf of the moors, with hounds clustered around Bahu Lal and the field spread out behind. The going on the hills is perfect but in between these rounded giants run boggy streams; there is no surer way to come a cropper with the Ooty than to take one's own line between the hills. One must proceed by the crossings, carefully constructed stone-inlaid trails, and if one can't find these legitimate passages the wise thing to do is to search further.

THE CHRONICLE

It takes a well-bred and careful horse to negotiate the Nilgiri Hills and before we crossed many hog backs and their intervening bogs, I knew I was lucky to be astride Jutland. He galloped hard on the turf but slowed to a prudent trot on the stony ridges and proceeded dead slow across the muddy waters of the streams. I think he knew he was carrying 185 unfit pounds at an altitude of nearly 8,000 feet.

Hounds found in a nullah on the far side of One Tree Hill and Bahu Lal doubled his horn as they went away with a grand burst of music toward Victory Hill. I gathered Jutland and let him run for a mile or two before I realized that I was not as young as I should be and pulled him protesting to a walk. From then on I saw the hunt from the hilltops and enjoyed it almost as much as I used to in the old days when hunting meant gallop and more gallop. On the side of a blue lake, which might have been sent to India direct from the English Fells, hounds killed and broke up their jackal in fine style. As hounds ran the distance covered - Mount Marjy, Kabbliod Stream, Armistice Ridge - was about five miles and the elapsed time fifty minutes. The master kindly gave me the mask which was duly forwarded to Van Ingen and Van Ingen for mounting.

Riding home behind the pack we passed a herd of long-horned buffalo and I was told that they were the wild stock beloved of the Todas. Single bulls are dangerous and have been known to charge anyone, including the hunt members who invade their chill uplands.

At a delicious lunch given us by the master and Mrs. Simpson I learned something of the history of the Ooty. Faded records of 1835 reveal that officers of the British regiments stationed in Madras and Malabar used to hunt sambhur with a pack of "capital hounds round about Ooty", but it was not till 1845 that the pack was organized as a pukka hunt. The first recorded master was Lieutenant T. Peyton who reigned from 1845 to '56. The country hunted runs to about 60 square miles with an average elevation of 7,600 feet above sea level. The covers, consisting of natural jungle or plantations of Eucalyptus, are called "sholas" and harbor a great number of jackals. Blank days in fact are unheard of but hounds have, like all hounds, occasionally run riot on other game. In 1944 the

The E. Noyes tavern sign is carved in one piece of wood (20" x 28" panel) with two illustrations painted one on either side. The sign is framed and attached to hand-wrought iron bars used in suspending the sign.

On one side there is a portrait of General Stark on horseback, with the inscription "Gen. Stark At Bennington", and the name of the proprietor "E. Noyes" is lettered below with gold leaf. On the other side a sun-burst (said to be a Vermont town seal) is painted in the center and shows evidence of retouching. "E. Noyes" inscribed below, is also of more recent date.

Found in Connecticut, but obviously used originally in Bennington, Vermont, this is one of the unusual examples in the tavern sign category, carrying two illustrations which are equally high in quality and quite original in idea.

A complete genealogy and other papers of the Noyes family were included in the purchase of this sign. The tavern proprietor was evidently Eugene Noyes, whose occupation is listed as store dealer, and who was born Sept. 27, 1849, in Newbury, Mass. He apparently moved about as there are subsequent addresses in Amesbury, Mass., and Southampton, New Hampshire.

pack killed a leopard, a feat which was duly reported in the Field and there are recorded instances where jungle sheep, hyena, tiger cats, civet cats, and pie dogs have furnished sport. A young sambhur stag is kept in kennels, however, and the present pack is very steady to deer.

The Master later took me to kennels where Bahu Lal, showed me his hounds. There were two nice litters of puppies; three couple by Ensign out of Countess and two couple out of Hindrance by Drummer. The kennel book showed that the Ooty had drafts from the Belvoir, Quorn, Brocklesby and Essex as far back as 1872. Hounds were also imported from the Devon and Somerset, the Quarne Harriers, while several rough-coated hounds in the present pack attested to their Welsh ancestry.

During the late war a troopship, carrying horses and a draft of hounds as well, was torpedoed in the Indian Ocean. Just before she sank a few horses and hounds got loose and jumped overboard. One of the hounds, seeing a horse swimming near it, managed to scramble onto its back, apparently recognizing it as a friend. The hound was rescued and duly forwarded to Ooty.

Essex Cub Hunting

Because of the running of their annual race meeting at Dhu Varren Farms on Saturday, September 22nd, the Essex Foxhounds met the previous morning at seven o'clock at Griffin's Gate. A gray fox was soon afoot in the nearby woods which hounds pushed in an easterly direction to a cross roads of driveways adjoining a kennel of toy poodles who joined in the music with enthusiasm. After dodging about the shrubbery for some ten minutes, hounds were at fault and huntsman Buster Chadwell collected them to seek straighter running quarry. At this moment, Speed, the hound purchased last summer from a Virginia farmer as a stud dog, threw his tongue with a flourish which brought hounds flying to him. Finding the neighborhood a bit too hot, the gentleman in gray took off north and then turned east up the tarred driveway of the Clarence Dillon farm which bothered hounds not a bit as they gave tongue just as well on the tarmac as on the grass. He next tried an extensive patch of brush and briars which he thought would be entirely too thick for his pursuers. Still finding them hot on his trail, however, he slipped out on the far end, but unlucky for him, was viewed by two and one-half couple which coursed him for 500 yards and pulled him down in the open - all in all, a very fine piece of hound work.

The adjoining beehive covert held a red customer which eventually went to ground in a drain on the golf course just behind three deer to which hounds paid not the slightest attention. Another fox found in Batchellor's soon went to ground in Zulke's drain, but a more ambitious customer found in Cutting's gave a fine hunt to the club covert and back over the Fowler and Fosbinder property. Two fresh foxes later broke up the hunt as the pack split three ways. As it was getting warm the Joint-Masters Mrs. Charles Scribner and Mrs. Nelson Slater decided to call it a morning and a very good morning at that.

Middle Tennessee

The purposes of the third annual Middle Tennessee Pony Club Horse Show were fun for as many people as possible, members and non-members, juniors and adults, and as much money as possible for the treasury.

Both aims were achieved. With about 2000 tickets sold at 24 cents each, trophies donated by parents of members, chances sold on cakes, 10 cent hot dogs, 50 cent and 1 dollar entry fees, profits totaled about $900!

With funds from the horse show and other enterprises, the Middle Tennessee Pony Club finances the sending of teams to regional and national P. C. Rallies.

Irish Don, the champion hunter, jumper, or hack of the show, had just shortly before earned the Nashville Tennessean's High Score Award for Hacks, also the Del Holeman Memorial Challenge Trophy for the Thoroughbred performing the best in hack classes at Nashville area shows. He was bred and trained by his owner, Sally Hines (Mrs. Jack) Hinkle.

Upper Valley

Many of us in New Hampshire and Vermont have been thinking about starting a Pony Club for some time, but because of our comparatively short riding season and no connection with an organized Hunt we were rather sceptical of its success. However, the interest in horses and ponies and riding facilities have increased so rapidly up here in the past few years it was decided the time had come to form a member club of the United States Pony Clubs, Inc.

On September 13th a group of interested adults met at Mr. and Mrs. William Hall's Rolling Meadows Farm in North Charlestown, New Hampshire, and the Upper Valley Pony Club was organized. It will encompass a large area East and West of the upper Conn. River Valley.

Officers elected at the initial meeting were: District Commissioner, Mrs. Gusta M. Giddings, New London, New Hampshire; 2nd District Commissioner, Mr. Roger T. Maher, Winsor, Vermont; Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. William L. Hall, North Charlestown, New Hampshire.

We were most fortunate to have Mrs. Philip B. Hofman, D. C. of the Somerset Hills Pony Club, at this first meeting to tell us about the workings of the United States Pony Clubs and to answer many questions.

It may be of interest to note that we have a very exceptional physical set up here for Pony Club activities. The Green Mountain Horse Association which is located in South Woodstock, Vermont, has on its grounds over 100 permanent stalls, a show ring and an outside course. The countryside surrounding the grounds is suitable for a cross-country course and already boasts of miles of trails and country-roads on which to ride. As many of the Chronicle readers know it is here that the 100-Mile Trail ride takes place, as well as many other rides throughout the season. It is also here that the Annual Woodstock Horse Show is held each summer. The Green Mountain Horse Association has done a great deal to stimulate interest in riding in this area and is now sponsoring the Upper Valley Pony Club.

Another outstanding establishment in Woodstock is Rolling Ridge, run by Mr. Robert Lamb. Here there is another ring, an indoor riding hall, an outside course and more miles of trails and roads. In New Hampshire local rallies can be held at the Hall's Rolling Meadows in North Charlestown and the Giddings' Brentwood Farm in New London.

Perhaps the most encouraging thing to find in this area is the number of outstanding and enthusiastic horsemen and women who either live or spend their summers here. Many children who are summer residents and who participate in Pony Clubs in other parts of the country can continue their activities with the Upper Valley Pony Club during the summer.

Our first rally will be held in Woodstock early in October with movies and we hope a talk by Mrs. John Grew, D. C. of the Norfolk Hunt Pony Club. Luncheon will be served at Rolling Ridge Farm after which the Lambs will have a demonstration of schooling riding and jumping.

We are looking forward to a large turnout for our first rally and hope to acquire a substantial membership at that time. I trust you will be hearing from us again when the Upper Valley Pony Club gets underway.

Maryland Pony Breeders, Inc. 6th Annual Pony Sale

Once again on the last Friday of the Maryland State Fair the Maryland Pony Breeders, Inc., held their annual sale. Over a period of six years it has been gratifying to note that this event has been gradually building towards the organization's aims i.e. good honest ponies of all types from the small child's pet to breeding stock for the discriminating breeders.

The fact that this year's sale topped the previous ones by better than $6000 is proof that the quality offered was very high. The inspection committee did their job thoroughly before ponies were catalogued and the auctioneer, Mr. Charles Roop of New Windsor, Md., and his crew gave everyone ample time to place their bids and to understand what was going on.

This year's sale offered the largest number registered Welsh and is quickly becoming recognized as the Welsh Sale of the year. Buyers came from all over the country to bid on the twelve entered. Quite a few of the animals were imported and carried the celebrated prize-winning blood lines of Coed Coch Madog, Coed Coch Serenllys, and Siaradus. Penarth Coronation, a lovely five-year-old gray mare, in foal to Coed Coch Meilyr, a champion of Wales and the United States, topped the Welsh at $950 going to Mrs. Franklin Gordon of Coatesville, Pa. The twelve Welsh ranging from 4 months to 17 years brought an average of $600.

Topping the entire sale was Pamela Barner's 9-year-old dappled chestnut Shetland mare, Valley Spring's Silver Dawn who went to Mr. Le Roy Le Van of Gettysburg, Pa., for $1850.

The Barner family also had the honor of topping the crossbred ponies with the 8-year-old half Arab mare Choness, Mrs. James Jones, Jr., of Bethesda, Md., is now the proud owner of this grand show mare.

For the first time a lovely little registered Arabian mare was consigned to the sale and the interest which she arose is proof that this breed is becoming quite popular. Mr. Asmis consigned this young mare to show that this breed has a place among the others in the sale. Mrs. Robert Chambers of Millbrook, N. Y. now has the pleasure of being her new owner.

SHOW STORIES

Allendale

A flashing win in the $500 Jumper Stake was the margin of victory for Saxon Wood as he annexed the $7500 Open Jumper Championship at the Cerebral Palsy Fund show in Allendale, N. J. The only horse in a field of 25 to turn in a clean round over Eddie Bimberg's tough sporty course, the veteran campaigner, ridden by Adolf Mogavero, received the $3000 first money in addition to the Governor's Championship Trophy donated by P. Ballantine and Sons. Tied for reserve honors on a cumulative point basis were S. E. Magid's Little David and George DiPaula's Lariat. A flip of the coin gave the Magid horse the $1500 reserve award, with $1000 and third going to Lariat.

The championship climaxed a three-day jumping tournament which was a featured innovation at the Allendale show this year. With the exception of the PHA Trophy class, all classes in both the Jumper and Green Jumper divisions were judged under F. E. L. rules over courses patterned after the international courses of Europe.

The success of the somewhat radical experiment could perhaps best be judged by the enthusiastic turnout of spectators. Show officials estimated that a total crowd of over 20,000 were in attendance during the three day affair, with more than 14,000 spectators on hand Sunday to watch the four show rings and outside course all in action simultaneously.

High on the list of spectator interest was the hotly contested jumper division. Throughout the show the struggle for top honors seasawed back and forth as many contestants found the intricacies of F. E. L. conditions too exacting. The inclusion of the time element and the extremely sharp turns on the courses accounted for much of the difficulty but seemed to sharpen spectator enjoyment of the competition.

The Six Bars class contested over a course of six progressively higher jumps placed in a straight line produced a popular local win. Eight horses went clean on the first trip to necessitate a jumpoff. This resulted in the elimination of all but Lariat and Jimmy Wilson's Gift of Gold, both of whom were clean again. With the jumps raised, both horses collected 4 faults and elected to jump off a third time to break the tie. At this point, with the jumps up to 5'6", Lariat, under Linky Smith, got 4 faults and second place as Gift of Gold negotiated the course flawlessly. The victory for the chestnut was a particularly popular one since he was ridden by his owner, 16-year-old Jimmy Wilson, son of the Allendale chief of police. Young Wilson purchased the horse from a neighbor the day before the show with money he earned washing dishes and was making his first start in major competition.

Saturday's Puissance provided a full share of thrills as 28 jumpers vied over a formidable course that included a wall which was the nemesis of several contestants. After two jumpoffs the field was cut to four horses who still had not scored a fault—Little David, Fred Blum's On Leave, Mrs. H. R. Thomas' Velvet Lassie and Duffy Stables' Andante. The course was cut to three jumps, the last being the wall at 5'9". The first three horses each scored 4 faults at the wall but Dave Kelly came on with a masterful ride to clinch the win with a clean performance on Andante. In an additional jumpoff for the remaining places, Shirley Weinstein sewed up second with a clean round on Little David. On Leave collected 4 faults again at the wall and Velvet Lassie appeared to be on her way to a clean round when she surprised the crowd and Max Bonham by stopping at the wall. The mare was then clean over the wall for 3 faults and third place.

The Green Jumper division, which attracted 25 entries, offered a $1000 championship which was also decided on cumulative points garnered through six classes. The tri-color went to Kimberton Hill Farms' Kimberton Vike who was an easy winner as Raymond Burr rode him to three firsts.

Another notable innovation offered by the show management this year was the inclusion of a dressage division. Six classes were offered, including both the PHA and USET Medal classes and a high point championship was awarded. This latter award went to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gill's Pennsylvania Dutchman.

The first offering of its kind in the area, the dressage was a pronounced success. Classes were filled to capacity and the standard of performance was of a uniformly high order. The rigorous and exacting tests revealed that many riders, particularly juniors, have devoted long hours to the problems of dressage with excellent results.

Outstanding performances were turned in by Karen McIntosh, winner of the PHA Medal class, and Carol Hofmann, winner of the USET Medal class. Other juniors giving unusually polished performances were Judy Hofmann and Marilyn Bathel.

Genesee Valley Hunt

The Genesee Valley Hunt One-Day Horse Trials took place at Mr. Edward Mulligan's Farm in Avon, N.Y. on October 14, 1956. This is the second year that these Trials have been held. The One-Day Event was first introduced here in 1955 in place of Hunter Trials which had occurred regularly for some 30 years. The organization of these first Trials would have been extremely difficult if it had not been for the kind cooperation of Mr. Neil Gardiner and the British Horse Society.

There has been considerable argument in the Genesee Valley over an event of this type as a number of people criticize the value of Dressage for hunters. Such criticism was especially noticeable amongst the older generation, whereas this innovation was enthusiastically received by the younger members.

In view of this it is interesting to compare the entries this year with those in 1955. In the Open Championship 24 competitors took part in 1955 and only 14 in 1956, whilst in the Junior Championship (under 17) nine competed in 1955 and seventeen in 1956. Various reasons were put forward by seniors for not entering for the second year, one being that "Dressage ruins a good hunter". To offset this, however, we were fortunate in receiving a strong entry of four horses from Canada; Mr. Larry McGuinness entering "SKILLY", "COLLEEN" and "STEELWORKER", and Mr. Tjerk Vanderplaats entering "WALTZING MAT".

ILDA". Mr. McGuinness rode SKILLY and COLLEEN himself taking 1st and 4th place whilst his third horse STEELWORKER was ridden by Mr. Brian Herbison of the Canadian Olympic Three-Day Event Team and finished 7th. Mr. Vanderplatts' nice mare WALTZING MATILDA took 2nd place. It was most encouraging to the Valley members, however, that the Genesee Valley Hunt was not out-horsed or out-ridden as Mr. Franz Stone of Buffalo on "HOODWINK" was 3rd, in front of Mr. McGuinness' Olympic contestant COLLEEN, whilst Mrs. Lowther, on Mrs. R. B. Taylor's "BRIGHT MATE" was 5th, only .55 of a point behind COLLEEN who finished 19th in the Olympics when ridden by Mr. J. Elder.

The Junior Championship produced very keen competition, though only eight of the seventeen contestants managed to negotiate the Cross Country Course with-competitors being allowed fifteen minutes after completing their Dressage before starting on their Cross Country.

The Senior Cross Country course was 3200 yards in length with 21 obstacles up to 3'9" in height. This course had to be ridden at a speed of 492 yards per minute, the time allowed being 6 minutes 30 seconds, and a time bonus of .3 of a point up to 656 yards per minute. The Junior course was 1650 yards in length with 13 obstacles up to 3'6" and had to be ridden at 450 yards per minute, the time allowed being 3 minutes 40 seconds. No bonus was given for a faster time. The Test was judged by Mrs. Jane P. Gagnier assisted by Mr. Hugh Wiley, a member of the 1956 U. S. Olympic Equestrian Team.

Show Jumping was the final phase of the Trials, the tests being placed in this order to ensure that the spectators were collected into one area so that the presentaout elimination. Stirlin Harris, on his 8-year-old Bay gelding "PETER PIPER", put up an excellent and consistent performance to obtain first place, whilst Miss Elizabeth Case must be congratulated on gaining both the 2nd and 3rd places, with her 8-year-old Connemara mare "LORELEI" and a 5-year-old brown mare "HARBOR LIGHT", respectively. Both these mares are recent importations from Ireland.

Nearly 1000 spectators attended and the course and arenas were laid out so that as many of these as possible could watch all the tests with the minimum of exercise.

All the competitors, Senior and Junior, were required to execute the British Horse Society's Novice Equitation Test 1955 (Class N) and were judged by Col. Frederic Grafi of Toronto and Capt. Bertalan de Nemethy, the coach of the U. S. Olympic Equestrian Team. To speed up the programme the Cross Country was held at the same time as the Dressage, all tion of awards could be made immediately on its conclusion. The Senior jumping course was 485 yards in length with 10 obstacles up to 4'. The course had to be ridden at 327 yards per minute, the time allowed being 1 minute 30 seconds with no time bonus. The Junior jumping course was 260 yards in length with 8 obstacles up to 3'6", speed 327 yards per minute and time allowed 50 seconds. This phase was judged by Mr. Hugh Wiley.

Mrs. Howard Serrell acted as Appeal Judge and dealt most ably with a number of minor occurrences which arose.

As Horse Trials of this type were quite new to the majority of the spectators it was decided that 200 marks should be allotted to each contestant from which their penalty points were deducted and the resulting plus score shown on the scoreboard. Maj. Gen. Roger Reynolds

Kennett Square

With no conflicting show this weekend, Kennett had the largest number of entrants in its history.

Effie Jane Koehler's pretty little grey Muscovado walked away with the hunter tricolor. Reserve was the very consistent grey of Samuel Wanner's, Blue Minx, ably ridden as usual by Allan Jackson.

Lewis Garver added another jumper tricolor to his already-large collection with Derbydown Stables' St. Nick, while reserve went to Bill Douglas' good local mare, Maybe.

Kennett is unusual in that the children's classes are judged on the basis of 60% horsemanship and 40% suitability as a child's mount. The first three winners in each class are then eligible for the championship class which is judged solely on horsemanship. Patti Grace won her first leg on the championship trophy which was put into competition six years ago as a memorial to her late grandfather.

Fencepost

Hidden Hill

The setting at the annual Hidden Hill Hunter Trials couldn't be more perfect - the course is within the spectators sight yet ample enough to allow for a good strong pace. The daily winnings were divided between Franz Stone and Wade Stevenson, as Mr. Stone won all the hunter classes with the exception of the Green Hunters and the Children's Hunters - those were won by young Wade Stevenson. The annual Nakoma Plate - a 4 and one half furlong race was not held this year due to a combination of insufficient entries and slippery going.

M.K.

CIVIC

Miss Vicki Purcell's Shamrock had a clean sweep of the jumper classes in the 22nd Annual Civic Horse Show, held outside Portland recently. Almost as consistent in the Hunter Classes was Coxe, owned by Jan Sorrels, who went ahead to accumulate her championship for this show.

Pulled by Captain Frank Gilbey's team of bays the Red Rover leaves The Jovial Sailor, Ripley one of the oldest coaching inns on the London-Southampton Road.

Sir Dymoke White, President of the Coaching Club, drives his team of bays past a thatched cottage at Kingsworthy near Winchester.

RED ROVER - The property of Messrs. Watney, Combe, Reid and Co. The Red Rover was the last coach to operate a regular service on the London-South Hampton run making its final journey in 1843. Last August the coach twice made the run from the Stag Brewery, Pimlico (London), to the Red Lion Inn, Southampton doing the 85 miles journey in 12 1/2 hours. Nine teams of horses were used and the stages were from 7 1/2 to 11 miles each.

Virginia U. Polo

In the opening game of the fall season the University of Virginia Polo Team scored twice in the final 45 seconds to tie the strong Cornell team 5-5. They followed that game up with another deadlock with the Washington Diplomats 10-10 before defeating the Brandywine, Pa., team, 8-7, for their first win of the season.

In their last outing, the Cavaliers played probably their best game of the season and again wound up in a tie. This time they matched the Ithaca, New York team, 5-5, - composed of the coach, assistant coach, and former Cornell captain.

FELL HOUNDS

At Thirk Race course Lord Irwin, Maj. Gordon Foster, and Col. R. M. Thompson - all recognised hound authorities - and I recently had a long talk in the stewards' room regarding Fell hounds, their remarkable nose abilities on a cold scent; their readiness to tackle and kill foxes single-handed; and their pace. As Lord Irwin said the latter quality is sometimes rather embarrassing, as he discovered when Major Petch, the Cleveland M. F. H., gave him a daughter of the wonderful Fellbred Carefree, whose name is being perpetuated by a race bearing her name at Redcar's three-day Turf fixture, commencing on the last day of July. The young Cleveland hound was sometimes a couple of fields ahead of the Middleton pack, and so had to be returned to the Cleveland. J. F-B.

Doug Nicol, Don Gerst, Malarkey Wall, and Leo Rocca, Jr., have backed the play of captain Dick Riemenschneider with excellent polo.

Since their organization four years ago, the Cavaliers have gained a reputation as one of the strongest teams in the collegiate ranks on the east coast. They will clash with their traditional rival, Yale, Oct. 28 after a match with the Columbia, S. C. team.

Ithaca Defeats Avon

Once every summer a group of polo playing business men from Ithaca meet with a similar group in Avon. In this year's game the Ithaca team definitely lagged behind for the first chukker; then as the game progressed they came on to win 16-11. During the practice sessions of the Avon group it was always the younger men who scored. But during this game it was the "old men" who did almost all the scoring and they played good polo. Robert Greer, Don Yull and Robert Neubeck were high scorers for the Avon team while Robert Wright, William Rumph and Frank Saturn were high scorers for Ithaca. M. K.

Mexican Polo Handicaps

The Mexican Polo Federation's handicaps for the 1956-57 season show very few changes in the high-goal ratings of the Metropolitan Association's players. Handicaps for players from the Queretaro, Guadalajara, Monterrey and Ciudad Juarez Polo Clubs have not yet been published.

Alejandro Gracda still leads the Metropolitan list at seven goals, followed by his brothers, Guillermo, Ruben and Gabriel Gracida, all carrying 6 goal ratings. Julio Muller, Jr., Erwin Anisz and Guillermo Cisneros are also handicapped at 6 goals, the latter receiving a one goal raise.

Antonio Nava, Jr. has dropped to 5 goals and Jesus Grijalva "Sonora" has been lowered to 4 goals.

Young Alberto Muller's father, Julio Muller Lujan, has joined him at 4 goals, where are also Jose Gracida, Jaime Rincon Gallardo, Roberto Borunda and Antonio Nava Castillo.

A good percentage of the lower goal players are showing steady improvement.

At the October meeting, General Juan F. Azcarate was reelected President of the Polo Federation for another two year term and is also on the handicap commission together with Guillermo and Gabriel Gracida. E. P.

Letters To The Editor

As the policeman who was on the horse that day, let me tell you what really happened and why the horse acted well and swiftly to prevent an accident.

I am now retired from the New York Police Force, but I shall always remember Merton. His owner Mrs. Ambrose Clark, turned him over to Colonel Fowler, then Police Commissioner. In October 1934 the horse was assigned to my personal supervision after he had completed his career on the steeplechase course.

He was 4 years old, an excitable creature when he first came, cat-like, keen, and nervous. And yet he had the sweetest disposition any horse had; he was never a top-per over the high jumps, but he would always give his all in the things he was able to do.

It took us 3 to 4 weeks to bring him back from his hard racing conditioning to his normal self. We spent months giving him our usual training for police horses. He was subjected to every noise, and more, which he would hear on city streets. We sounded horns only a few feet away from him. When he ate, he heard pails rattling. Our training paddock in Long Island City was right next to railroad tracks. Horses trotted by locomotives without a tremor. They were subjected to every kind of conceivable noise.

I am going into some detail on his police schooling so that you will realize he was thoroughly trained before we would permit him to leave his training paddock. We would not allow him on city streets if he, as your article suggested, would have been reminded so easily of the sights and sounds from his steeplechasing days. As I have said, Merton arrived at the police stables in October 1934. He was not permitted to go out into city streets until spring of 1935.

On the day you describe, Merton and I were on Jackson Avenue in heavy traffic at about 1 P. M. Suddenly and deliberately, an ambulance driver almost directly in back of us let loose with a siren. A truck with a low-bed trailer was traveling at about 20 miles an hour in the same direction as the ambulance and the horse and I. Merton, with a graceful leap, was up on that low trailer in a flash to let the ambulance pass. Almost as quickly, I braced, and he was back on the pavement so fast that most people there did not quite see what had happened.

It was his keen mind which had been at work, not fear of any kind. He wanted to get out of the way of the stupid act of another. Hell had been let loose just behind his tail, and he had acted well. Although some persons in the crowd were amazed, we went about our business and didn't even look at the ambulance again.

Merton was a lovable police horse who later became well known as he won championships for three successive years in Madison Square Garden and several times at other shows including those at Syracuse, Westchester, and Newark. I still look at his picture occasionally and think of that afternoon on Jackson Avenue.

Yours truly,
(Sgt.) James F. Gannon

Pennsylvania National Horse Show

The big Pennsylvania National Horse Show at Harrisburg, with nearly 800 horses entered, gave Americans their first opportunity to see its excellent U. S. Equestrian Team after a successful season abroad.

The team, Captained by William Steinkraus, and including Hugh Wiley and Frank Chapot, all evenly matched riders, captured the low score trophy with only 4 faults for the three events, thus putting the United States in first place for the sixth time within seven years.

Chapot, riding Tagg's Matador, a golden horse with invisible wings, treated the spectators to the most thrilling ride of the international competition when he toured an eleven jump course in 25.5 seconds and no faults to win the individual open jumping class. This is believed to be the fastest time ever recorded for that particular course. Chapot edged out Mexico's Brig. Gen. Humberto Mariles for the victory. Riding his favorite mount, Chihuahua II, Mariles took 28.2 seconds to complete the course with no faults.

One of Steinkraus' best performances was in the two-horse phase of the low score competition, when he turned in faultless rides with Night Owl and First Boy. Wiley, riding Nautical and Master William, also had several faultless rides both in team classes and in individual classes, but lost first place ribbons in the timing.

In fact, the United States riders were in the ribbons in every one of the international events.

Of the eleven international events, Mexico won five, the United States three, Chile, Ireland and Canada, one each. Thus no team was shut out during the week-long event. For the most part, especially at the start of the show, scores were close, with only fractions of seconds separating the winners from the losers. After a midweek slump, the Irish team of Lt. Patrick J. Kiernan, Lt. Thomas Moroney, and Lt. William A. Ringrose came back to win the Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower Team trophy, an accumulative event which is being carried over through the other two big shows.

Canada's team of Thomas Gayford, Douglas Cudney and Douglas Hood, after missing victories by narrow margins during the week, came through on the final night to win the Perpetual Challenge trophy in a jump-off with the United States. In the jump-off, Steinkraus, riding First Boy, took a spectacular spill which, added to previous faults, brought his total to 25-3/4, and put the U. S. in second place. This was the first time in the entire show that he had more than nine faults on any round.

Three of Mexico's victories, including the individual jumping championship, were accounted for by Mariles. One, the preliminary, was won by Julio Herrera on Mexicano and the other victory was a team class, with Samuel Soberon riding 14 de Agosto, also contributing. Mariles withdrew from the Perpetual Challenge trophy event when it became evident that faults by his other two team members would not lead to victory.

Chile's Capt. Leopoldo Rojas, riding Barranco, captured a fault and out event with 16 obstacles cleared in 69.5 seconds. His team mate, Capt. Guillermo Aranda was third with 15 cleared in 68 seconds, while Herrera of Mexico, also with 15 clear, placed second in 67.5.

In the hunter and jumper divisions, champions squeaked through on narrow margins for victory. In fact, there were ties for both conformation hunter and jumper championships.

Shannondale, Green Court Stables' beautiful big chestnut, who is growing handsomer and better all the time, and his half brother, Waiting Home, owned by Peggy Augustus, each had 15-1/2 points and hacked it off, the tri-color going to Shannondale. The big five-year-old chestnut, ridden by Mrs. Robert Burke, had caught up fast with Waiting Home by winning the stake class in a perfect performance. Waiting Home failed to place in the stake because he knocked down the little white gate. This is Shannondale's third championship this year, the others having been at Ox Ridge and at West Chester, where he also was grand hunter champion. He was reserve at the Lancaster, Pennsylvania spring show.

Mr. and Mrs. Grover W. Stephens' Ace of Diamonds with 14 points nosed out Duke of Paeonian, owned by Mr. and Mrs. John S. Pettibone, who had 13-1/2 points. The Ace was ridden by Stephens to many smooth performances, while Betty Beryl Schenk piloted the Duke on his excellent rounds.

In the working hunter championship, there was a little more leeway. Sky's Impression, owned by Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Motch, and ridden by Robert Motch, piled up 20 points for the tricolor, and Fairview Farm's Bronze Wing, ridden by Mrs. Eligio Del Guercio, Jr., and Adolph Mogavero, placed in the reserve spot with 15 points, after a slow start at the beginning of the show.

In the jumper division, there was a tie with 10 points each on the part of Betty Bosley's The Clown and Mrs. Hubert R. Thomas' Velvet Lassie, ridden by Max Bonham. After Betty had jumped it off with only two faults, Max defaulted because Velvet Lassie had been injured in two spills and was unable to go in the stake or to jump off. Max claimed he was not seriously injured in either of the spills, but one of them looked really bad. This was in the "Big Jump" event. When Velvet Lassie fell over a jump, Max landed on his head and seemed poised there for an eternity. At first he seemed dazed but mounted again and finished.

This incident was the cause of photographers being barred from the ring, when many of the spectators, blaming the spill on a flash bulb, started to yell: "Take 'em Out!" Later, after a poll of nine of the top riders who agreed that usually photogs didn't bother the horses, the camera men were urged to return.

But then the local and wire services photographers decided to boycott the show, and there was no more picture-taking the rest of the show, except on the part of a well known free lance, (Budd).

High spot of the jumper division was the "Big Jump" Sweepstakes, with a total purse of $10,618.09, largest sweepstake in the horse show world in the nation to date.

Charles Dennehy, a former member of the U. S. team, went home with a total of $6,052.32 from this class alone, by virtue of taking first place money of $5,309.05 with Altmeister and fourth place money of $743.27 with Pill Box. He also picked up $300 more for third in the jumper stake, Continued on Page 32 plus a few other dollars for placing in other events.

Almeister won the Big Jump in a jump-off with Tarnished Silver and Royal Flight, who finished second and third, respectively. Tarnished Silver, owned by Hans Tobeason, was ridden throughout the show by Mrs. Joseph R. Busk, Jr., mother of four children all under three and a half years old. This is accounted for by a pair of twins. Her youngsters are Wendy, three and a half; Joe and Hope, one and a half, and Gay, five months. Royal Flight, owned by Frank Imperatore Motor Co., was ridden by Jack Amon.

Another thriller was the FEI class in which Duffy's Jack O Lantern, with Dave Kelley in the saddle, took a total of 36 clean jumps to win in a double jump off. Five horses went clean on the first round and four on the second, but Jack O Lantern was the only one to go clean again on the third round.

Duffy's Andante won the PHA class, putting her in a leading position for the PHA championship. She defeated Mr. and Mrs. Bernie Mann's Riviera Wonder, ridden by Al Fiore, in a jump off. Andante also won the Godfrey TV "High Jump".

The customers were also given a taste of excellent riding in the triple bar class, when seven horses had perfect performances. Velvet Lassie won the jump-off.

In the final knock down and out, The Clown had 15 clean jumps, ridden by Miss Bosley, while four others had 13 clean and tossed for places. It was in this class that Bonham had his second spill.

To go back to the hunter divisions, some of the outstanding performances were by Sky's Impression in the working hunter stake, Betty Jane Baldwin's Jaybar in the handy hunter class, Geraldum, owned by Mrs. Merron Merry, in the conformation hunter appointments class, and Spanish Mint, owned by Mrs. J. Deane Rucker, in the Corinthian hunter stake.

The show, the 11th annual, had a record entry list of close to 800 horses hailing from as far west as from California, and from Canada, Central America and South America.

DR. BILLY LINFOOT RECOVERING

The West Coast is happy to report that Dr. Billy Linfoot, their 8 goal polo star, is recovering from an operation on his right arm. Dr. Linfoot suffered a muscle injury last year at Santa Barbara, and has since played many times in extreme pain. While playing in the "Billy Linfoot Invitational" in Honolulu he had the muscle torn completely from the bone in his right arm. This spurred his team on to win the game for him with a score of 12 to 10.

Dr. Linfoot, operated on at the Sequoia Hospital in Redwood City, was out in about a week after his operation, and is riding over the Woodside Hills of California now with his right arm immobile, and his south paw doing the work. M. O. B.

STALLION COURT AT NEWSTEAD FARM

The Taylor Hardin's Newstead Farm, bustling with activity these days, has a stallion court as well as a ten stall stable for mares and foals under construction. The court is U-shaped and consists of four stallion stalls and ten mare stalls. The enclosure is completed by a wall with large oak gates joining the building. It is here that Newstead's stallions Armageddon, Trojan Monarch, Boss and Alquest will live the proverbial Life of Riley. Construction of the court and stables is expected to be through in middle November. M. T.

IRISH IMPORTS AT MILLS RIDING SCHOOL HORSE SHOW

East Bay spectators had their first viewing of Trish Galvin's new Irish imports, Tallyho and Ballinscala. These horses have won many ribbons in Ireland in flat classes, but neither had been shown over jumps prior to this year. Ballinscala won the model hunters and placed in two novice hunter classes. Tallyho showed great promise, and is a most unusual and good-looking horse - a dappled grey with the longest, fullest and whitest tail ever seen. C. C. D.

GEN. R. D. KEEHN

Word has recently been received of the death of Maj. Gen. Roy D. Keehn at Hill-top Farm, Lake Bluff, Illinois. Gen. Keehn was graduated from Culver Military Academy, Princeton University, and Loyola University Law School and headed a successful law firm in Chicago. He was a Captain in the Chicago Black Horse Troop, later merged with the 106th Cavalry in which he held the rank of Major. During 1941-42, he was a cavalry instructor at Fort Riley, Kansas, with the rank of Lieutenant Colonel. Going overseas in 1943 after the war, he became Chief of Staff of the 33d Division. He was a member of the Oak Brook Polo Club and Honorary Whipper-in of the Oak Brook Hunt.

EXCITED?

John D. Hertz might not have looked especially excited or nervous at the Thoroughbred Club of America's testimonial dinner in his honor last week. But when someone handed him three programs to autograph, the master of Stoner Creek Stud, Paris, Ky., autographed one of them thrice and the other two not at all. F. T. P. NEW COUPLING RULE FOR HUSBAND AND WIFE

The New York State Racing Commission recently issued a new rule (No. 222(b)) providing that all horses owned wholly or in part by the same owner or the spouse of any such owner or trained by the same trainer, must be coupled and run as an entry.

JIM RYAN RECOVERING

Jim Ryan of Unionville, Pennsylvania, who trains the stable of Mrs. J. R. H. Thouron, recently underwent abdominal surgery at the Roosevelt Hospital, New York City. He is reported to be convalescing satisfactorily.

MRS. GEORGE T. MILLS INJURED

Mrs. George T. Mills (Josephine Tutt) of Colorado Springs was seriously injured at the ninth annual Plum Creek Hunter Trials on October 14th when the horse she was riding apparently stood too far back at a fence and fell badly. Friends of Mrs. Mills, who manages and is chief riding instructor at the Broadmoor Hotel Stables, will be glad to know she is progressing satisfactorily, and when asked, while still semi-conscious, when she was going to ride again, promptly replied "Tomorrow". H. N.

HAREWOOD THREE DAY TRIALS

Miss Sheila Willcox riding her High and Mighty, a pair which won the F. E. L. Championship at Turin in 1955, recently won by a decisive margin the three day trials at Harewood, one of the two principal events of this kind in England. Second was Miss P. Moreton on Col. Hume Dudgeon's Korbus followed by Lt.-Commander J. S. K. Oram riding his Copperplate.

With a great preponderance of women riding in our show rings, it is indeed surprising that they do not excel here in three day events as they do in England.

ARRETON FARM PONY CLUB

The Arreton Farm Pony Club of Rose-land, New Jersey recently visited the Han-over Pony Breeding Farm in Florham Park New Jersey. About 20 members were present and were greatly interested in the mares, foals and stallion. The highlight was an exhibition of tricks by one of the prize stallions. J. H.

GIFT TO AUSTRALIAN OLYMPIC TEAM

An anonymous gift of 5,000 pounds has been made by an Australian living in the United States to the Equestrian Federation of Australia in order to enable the latter to begin training Australian-bred horses for the 1960 Olympic Games in Rome.

HORSE CRUTCH

Dr. Jacques Jenney of the University of Pennsylvania, who constructed the cast on Swaps' left hind leg, has invented a special type of crutch to be attached above the hock and to be used on a horse which does not take kindly to a sling for removing the weight of the body from the leg.

REYNOLDS STABLE IN CAMDEN

Arthur Reynolds of Tryon, North Carolina has recently opened a branch stable in Camden, South Carolina. E. D. B.

RIDING HATS

Newcomers to riding should remember that the hunting cap, the derby and the top-hat take their shape from the fact that they are reinforced so as to protect the wearer's head - they are, in fact, crash helmets. The fashion of wearing them on the back of the head, which is seen at horse shows and even in some hunting fields,

R. C. M. P. MUSICAL RIDE

The Musical Ride of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, which will be featured at the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair at Toronto in November, dates back to 1876. The ride is performed by a full troop of 32 Lancers on black horses.

AMERICAN JUDGES BRITISH PONY SHOWS

Hetty Mackay-Smith of Farnley, White Post, Va., a member of the Virginia State livestock judging team at V. P. I. in 1956, recently officiated at the Vaynor Show over a class of sixteen foals, and at the Barry show, as a guest judge with Llewellyn Richards, who judged the pony breeding classes last year at Timonium, Md. EASY GOING ROULETTE

Among the green hunters at the Plum Creek Hunter Trials, Larkspur, Colorado, Mrs. Keith Robinson's newly acquired Roulette, accounted for a lovely round, quiet manners and easy rythmical jumping. Mrs. Robinson expects to hunt Roulette her first season this year with the Arapahoe Hunt.

ARROW IN FOX

Although most foxhunters tend to prefer bow and arrow hunters to gunners, the followers of on of the crack New Jersey packs recently suffered a quick change of heart when they came upon their hunted fox with an arrow through it.

NONNIE STEER'S SIR WINSTON

Nonnie Steer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Steer of Indian Hill, Cincinnati is in the East before the war, made his first show appearance in many years on Red Garters at Mills Riding School Horse Show, Oakland, California. During his absence from the show ring, Joe may be said to have "gone to the dogs", first with the K-9 Corps, and then with the Oakland Dog Training Club. He proved his special understanding of animals with Red Garters, a formerly timid horse, when they were the only ones to successfully attempt the Ace jump in Gambler's Stake.

JOCKEY PHELPS MAKES THE WEIGHT

Most jockeys as they grow older and heavier graduate from flat races to riding steeplechasers or to training. Earl Phelps has had just the opposite experience. In his early days he schooled and rode hunters for the Springsbury Farm of Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Greenhalgh, Sr., of Berryville, Virginia, a post where light weight was no object. He next turned to riding steeplechasers and got his weight down to the point where he could ride at 132 lbs. A little over a year ago he decided he needed to ride more races in an afternoon in order to pay for the farm he had recently bought at Unionville, Pennsylvania, in the Cheshire hunting country and has since reduced so that he can ride flat races at 113 lbs.

OVERHEARD AT ALLENDALE

The many friends of Otis Trowbridge were glad to see him back at the announcer's microphone at the Allendale, New Jersey Show (October 12-14) with the knee much better which has kept him on the sidelines during the summer. One of his many remarks which added to the entertainment of the show followed an exhibition of dresses by a collection of definitely shapely models. Over the loudspeaker came the following announcement: "Will Mr. X please report to the Models' Corner-or has he made other arrangements?"

SIFTON BUYS HYPERION STALLION

Col. Victor Sifton, Winnipeg, has bought *Reed Mace by Hyperion. Imported to Canada by the late Jim Skeers, *Reed Mace has been a successful sire of race horses while standing in the west. It is probable Col. Sifton will send him to Ontario to stand at his farm in Aurora and give eastern breeders an opportunity to breed to a Hyperion stallion. As Co. Sifton is an ardent hunting man it is likely the stallion will be available to certain select hunter mares. He is a spectacular individual, a light dappled chestnut with light mane and reaping her rewards in ribbons on her 3-yr.-old gelding Sir Winston. This half Thoroughbred and half Morgan was trained by Nonnie and in the recent Children's Horse Show added five ribbons to her collection. At the end of the show this winning combination was pretty tired but full of pride and deservingly so.
